yesterday morning when her father took her away.

The mother superior of the institution had refused the request of the girl's father to send her to Terre Haute, Ind., alone. She stated yesterday that Mr. Harper wrote to her requesting that his daughter, who had been piaced in the orphanage by an aunt, Miss Laura Harper, be permitted to join him in Terre Haute. The mother superior replied that the child would be given up to her father or any representative he might send for her, but she refused to allow the girl, who is not healthy, to make the trip to Terre Haute alone.

Mr. Harper arrived in the city yesterday morning, and after a few minutes' conversation with the mother superior left the orphanage with his child. He stated that there was no necessity for his child being kept in a charitable institution, as he is amply able to provide for her, and declared to the mother superior that he believed that his daughter was attending a private academy. They left for Terre Haute on a Big Four noon train.

SALVATION ARMY SOCIAL

Interesting Programme Arranged for Entertainment.

The Salvation Army will give a novel ice cream social this evening at the headquarters barracks. No. 1413 Franklin avenue. All the soldiers from the different corps in the city will be present, with a delegation from East St. Louis. A number of outsiders have also been invited.

Musical selections will be rendered by the best brass band of the army, for whose benefit the entertainment is given. It is the hope of the officers to raise enough money to buy a new euphonium, and to provide a lot of exercises and hymn books. Besides the brass band a selected string band will play, and vocal solos and choral pieces have also been given places on the programme. The meeting-room of the barracks has been lately provided with a system of overhead fans, which are expected to cool the atmosphere.

DAY IN THE PARKS.

Four Thousand Carried Out by Transit Company and Fed by Fresh Air Mission.

MANY TICKETS DISTRIBUTED.

Physicians and Women on Hand to Take Care of Little Invalids -Cabanne Youngsters Give a Benefit.

Officers of the Fresh Air Mission enter tained nearly 4,000 children at their impromptu booths in Forest and Tower Grove park yesterday. President T. Percy Carr of the Fresh Air Mission was in charge of the work.

The object of the Fresh Air Mission is to provide the poor children of the city with opportunities to remain in the parks all day in hot weather. Milk, crackers, cake and lemonade are distributed free, and care is given to the younger children.

At Forest Park a booth has been erected near the King's highway entrance and placed in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Anna G. Eberhard, Mrs. Charles Lindenschmidt, Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Miss Theresa Peters and Miss Ida Norp. A booth at Tower Grove Park has been erect. ed near the Grand avenue entrance, and is n charge of Miss Anna Carr, Miss Eliza beth Carr, Mrs. Edgar R. Rombauer and Miss Lydia Meisenbach. Local institutions assisting in the work are the Vacation Playgrounds Committee, the Children's Home Society, Messiah Mission, St. Stephen's Mission, Union Mission, Bethel Mis-sion, Levee Mission, Watts Chapel Settlement, Salvation Army and the Volunteer sion. Levee Mission. Watts Chapel Settlement, Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America.

Tickets are distributed by these societies to the poor children of the crowded district, insuring them their food for the day free at the booths of the mission. President Carr stated yesterday that he had distributed more than 2,300 tickets in the neighborhood of the Fourth District Police Station alone. Distribution of tickets has also been carried on upon the Eads Bridge. A committee composed of Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Doctor Kenrick and Doctor Beall spend the evenings on the bridge with the children, assistance being given to the mothers with sick children.

Children from the crowded districts along Biddle and O'Fallon streets were taken to the park yesterday by members of the Salvation Army, while the Bethel and Levee missions sent many children from the river front and the downtown districts.

Some of the children were so small they could hardly walk, yet were in charge of babies in arms nearly as large as themselves. Nearly every little girl in attendance seemed to be in charge of some little brother or sister still smaller, while even the little boys had been pressed into service as nursemaids, many having babies in their arms and tending them carefully all day.

To-day the mission will give its usual ex-

their arms and tending them carefully all day

To-day the mission will give its usual excursion on the river, and free tickets for the children can be obtained at any of the society headquarters. Doctors Kenrick and Beall will look after the alling children, while a committee of ladies headed by Mrs. E. P. Johnson will care for sick bables.

Several children who live in Cabanne presented the Chinese drama, "Ching Foo," in Arcade Hall Friday night, for the benefit of the Fresh Air Fund. The youngsters range in age from 7 to 15 years. They planned and carried out the entertainment entirely unaided. The children from the Christian Orphans' Home were their guests. About $20 was realized from the sale of tickets. Those who took part in the performance were: Lucle Mills, Helen Gorse, Esther Smith, Josephine Mills, Bessie Phillips, Hester Hyman, Margaretha Roth, Barah Smith, Edith Piper, Agnes Smith, Paul Phillips, Tom Mills, Lynn Piper, H. ALL BECAUSE OF DOG BARK.

Because a little mongrel dog barked too oudly, Lieman Walker, his owner, is on a cot at the City Hospital with a fractured skull; George Ellis, at whom the cur barked, is in the Carr Street Police Sta-tion for throwing bricks, and the mongrel is in transit to Butler's rendering works, where his bark will be rendered to better

The mongrel—"Grab" was his name—began barking at 6 a. m. resterday. At the same time Ellis left his home at No. 1112 North Thirteenth street, to go to church. "Grab" was barking at No. 1114 North Thirteenth street, next door. Ellis thought the dog was barking at him. So he tossed a brick at "Grab."

the dog was barking at him. So be tossed a brick at "Grab."

Walker, the mongrel's owner, got out of bed just in time to see "Grab" and the brick fall to connect, but to observe that the dog and Ellis's left leg had a greater affinity. Walker observed that these became attached to each other. Walker did not stop to dress. He went out hot-foot to prevent Ellis, he said, from alienating his dog's affections.

No one knows who threw the brick that killed "Grab," or who made the present to Walker which struck him all of a heap. Officers Moran and Ball of the Fourth District found the dead dog, and the injured man, and several brickbats lying idly at Eleventh and Wash streets, and they found George Ellis lying low not far away. Any further finding, said Officer Moran, will have to be done by the courts.

Life is stirring again at Jefferson Barrackz. Almost 500 men are quartered there. Not so many as there were when the war with Spain came and took the soldiers with Spain came and took the soldiers with Spain came and took the soldiers away. But Secretary Root has been to the Barracks, and probably before many months the post will resume its former military splendor.

Four troops of the Eleventh Cavalry arrived Wednesday from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., where they had been quartered a short time. These troops have been recruited since March 18 at Fort Meyer, Va. April 11 they were quartered at Fort Ethan Allen. They left there July 22 for St. Louis. The troops were organized under the new act of February 2. They are not trained like the troops that used to live at the Barracks, but it is the intention of the officers to get the men in fine shape as soon as the weather will permit of heavy drilling. Now it is too hot. A few of the rawest men are doing a little light drilling in the shade, and their officers only laugh when they stop drilling suddenly and take a tumble in the grass, under a shade tree. The officers don't care much about the work while the heat beats that of Porto Rico, Cuba or the Philippines. In the Philippines the heat is almost always feelling around the ninetics will be provided from the First Missouri Infantry and from the Second Cavalry, and was last stationed at Yellowstone Park.

According to Mr. Spurgeon, the American negroes who emigrated to Liberia have not thrived as well as was expected by the projectors of the colony, and, although as many as 10,000 went out from the United States, only 15,000 of them and their descendants remain. Mr. Spurgeon attributes this to intermarriage and to wearing more clothes than are suitable for the olimate of Liberia. The intermarriages are due to the fact that social lines are very sharply drawn between the emigrants and their descendants and the natives of the surrounding country.

Dislodging Old Scttlers.

The troops' chief engagements now are charges on the beds of the Barracks. They are not using regulation army bullets, nor is it regulation powder, but yellow stuff, and it is being shot from little bellows guns. Occasionally, when this powder does not work, a feather is dipped into a bottle containing a solution of corrosive sublimate and the dripping feather is run through a crack. This is even better than coal-oil baths, and kills instantly. While the men work they sing. They sing all the songs that have been popular for twenty to fifty years, and the new ones are not neglected. The men are young in the ranks, and several were heard to wish they were at home, on the farm, or any old place, except in the ranks. The guardhouse began business early, slight offenses only. The men are not used to the general mess plan. They prefer troop mess, but they will have to get used to the way it is done at Jefferson Barracks. cedless and Wasteful Expendi tures Charged by Inspector General's Department.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Washington, July 28.-Extravagance in operation, is the charge made by officers of the Inspector General's department against the army transport service.

The reports of these officers which have een received at the War Department condense the information received as the results of weeks of careful examination of the different vessels plying across the Pacific Ocean. They assert that each trans-

Attention is called to the condemnation of 100 small boats because their seams were open at the time of their purchase and subsequent examination showed they were unfit for service. Other extravagance pointed out.

These reports have been referred to Brig adler General Bird, Acting Quartermaster General, who is obtaining information bear-ing upon the points to which the inspectors have called attention. The War Department is anxious that the strictest eco should be observed in the operation of the transports.

General Bird have been zealous in reducing expenditures wherever possible. Should the force in the Philippines be reduced to 25,000, as recommended by Adjutant General Corbin, it will be possible to reduce the number of transports in commission, and in this way it will be possible to effect a saving. From present indications, these appeals will not meet with responses. The administration believes that missionaries are as well safeguarded by treaty provisions as it is possible to be by such means; and, with respect to their converts, the treaty steefficially declares that "any person whether citizens of the United States or Chinese convert who, according to these tenets citizens of the United States or Chinese convert, who, according to these tenets peaceably teach and practice the principles of Christianity, shall in no case be interfered with or molested."

Under that stipulation, the United States have the right to interfere in behalf of native proselytes. This Government has been disinclined to enforce it, believing it unwise to intervene in China affairs. If American missionaries are molested in future the usual representations which were so successful prior to the Boxer outbreak, will be made in their behalf.

STOCKYARDS AND WAREHOUSE BURNED.

Disastrous Blaze at Edwardsville Threatens Other Business Establishments.

The hardware and farm machinery warehouse of D. A. Keller & Co. and the Wabash stockyards at Edwardsville were destroyed

For half an hour it seemed that the entire business part of town would be overrun by the flames. Several lumber yards are in the vicinity of the warshouse, and it was feared they would catch fire. The efforts of the firemen were devoted to preventing the spread of the flames.

Half of the firemen and the Fire Chief were absent at Troy yesterday, while attending a tournament. They returned just as the fire broke out, and joined their stay-at-home comrades in the fire-fighting. The stock of Keller & Co. consisted of hardware and farm machinery. It was believed to be a total loss. Several head of cattle in the stockyards were destroyed. For half an hour it seemed that the entire
